Key Findings

The Quarterly Reports of the Swiss Trade Monitor document time trends in Switzerland's foreign goods and services trade of the most recent completed quarter. Not only are exports and imports considered in total, but these are broken down to provide a detailed analysis of the trade development with Switzerland's largest trading partners. Due do differences in data release schedules, the fourth edition for 2023 sheds light on the forth quarter of the year for goods trade and the third quarter for services trade. Here are some key observations:

- Switzerland's foreign goods trade in 2023 was about 2.5 percent lower than in the previous year. Imports were almost four percent down, partially due to lower prices. Exports were 1.2 percent below 2022 levels.
- While pharma exports declined significantly, imports increased strongly to a new high. For other major product categories such as chemicals, machines, or manufactured goods both exports and imports are either plateauing or declining.
- While goods trade with nations such as Slovenia or Italy flourishes, volumes with key partners such as Germany, France, China, or Spain are declining.
- In contrast to the development observed with goods trade, the report shows that Swiss services trade is growing strongly — both on the export and import side.
- Swiss services exports and imports are thriving with basically all major partner countries. Tourism exports have recovered fully from the COVID-related dip while transportation services are booming for both trade directions.

1 Swiss Trade Monitor

Switzerland is a small open economy. The international exchange of goods and services is crucial for the nation's economic prosperity. The aim of the Swiss Trade Monitor is to document key trends in Swiss foreign trade.

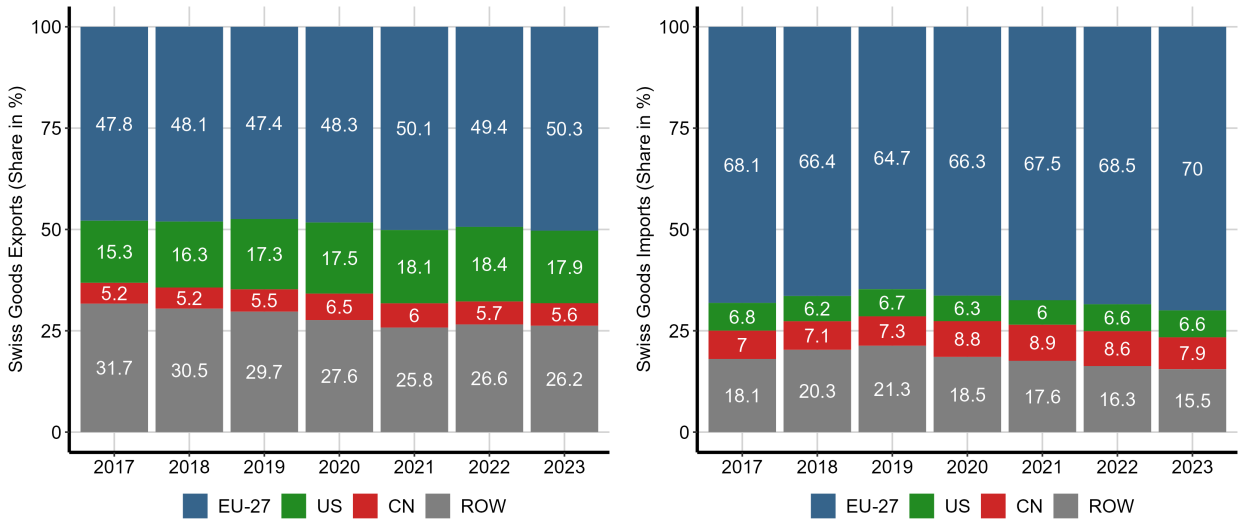

The quarterly reports provides an up-to-date account of Switzerland's foreign trade. We distinguish trade in goods and services. For both, the report illustrates major trading partners, dominant product/service groups, and key time trends. In addition, detailed data are presented for the three major partners (the EU-27, the United States, and China). Data on the goods trade exists on a monthly frequency and up to the most recent quarter. Services trade data is available on a quarterly basis, trailing by one quarter.

The data sources for this report are the Swiss Federal Office for Customs and Border Security (FOCBS) as well as the Swiss National Bank (SNB). Unless stated differently, the goods trade data excludes gold and other precious metals (the FOCBS refers to this as "Total 1").

2 Swiss Foreign Goods Trade

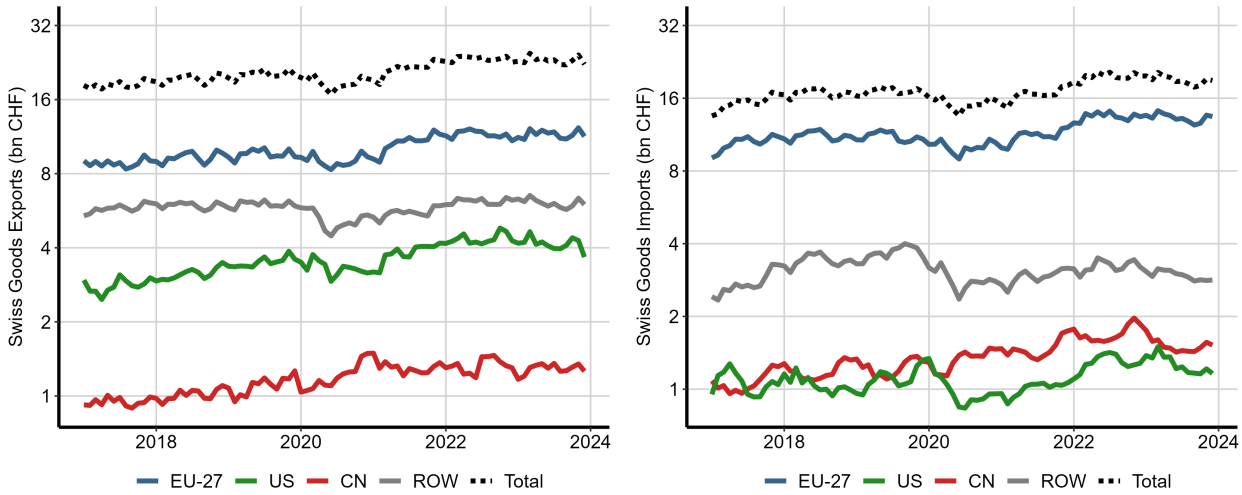

2.1 Key Partner Countries

Most of Swiss foreign goods trade occurs with three partners: the 27 nations of the European Union (EU-27), the United States, and China. Collectively, these three partners accounted for around 73% of exports and 84% percent of Swiss imports in 2022. Comparing recent years, the three partners' share of both ex- and imports has increased noticeably, especially driven by the EU.

Note: The figures show annual shares of Switzerland's total goods exports (left) and imports (right), separated by major partners (EU, USA, China) as well as the rest of the world (ROW). Figures in the bars denote shares of trade in percent.

Recently, the US closed the gap to China in terms of Swiss exports. The EU-27 accounts for about half of all exports and more than 2/3 of Swiss imports.

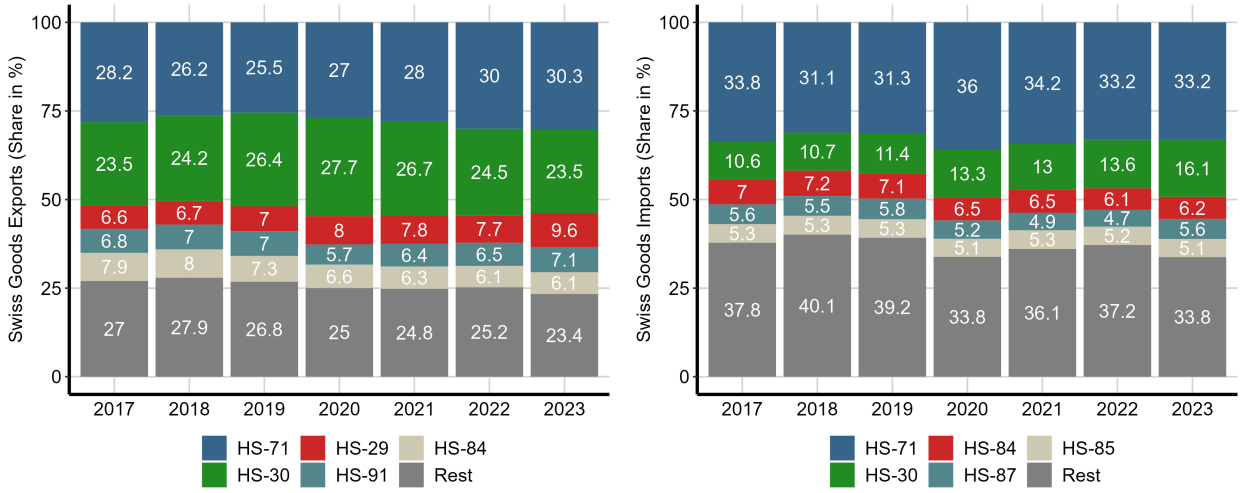

Note: The figures show Switzerland's total monthly goods exports (left) and imports (right) in total and for its three most important partners (EU, USA, China) as well as the rest of the world (ROW).

2.2 Main Products

When considering Swiss trade including gold and precious metals (the so-called Total 2), a few product groups play a major role. Swiss exports are dominated by gold (HS 71) and pharmaceutical products (HS 30) which together account for more than half of all exports. Chemicals (HS 29), watches (HS 91) and machines (HS 84) are the next most important product groups. The remaining 25% of exports consist of other products.

On the import side, gold is also by far the most important product, accounting for roughly a third of the total value. Pharmaceutical products (HS 30), machines (HS 84), specialized machinery (HS 85), and mineral fuels (HS 27) collectively account for another third of Swiss imports.

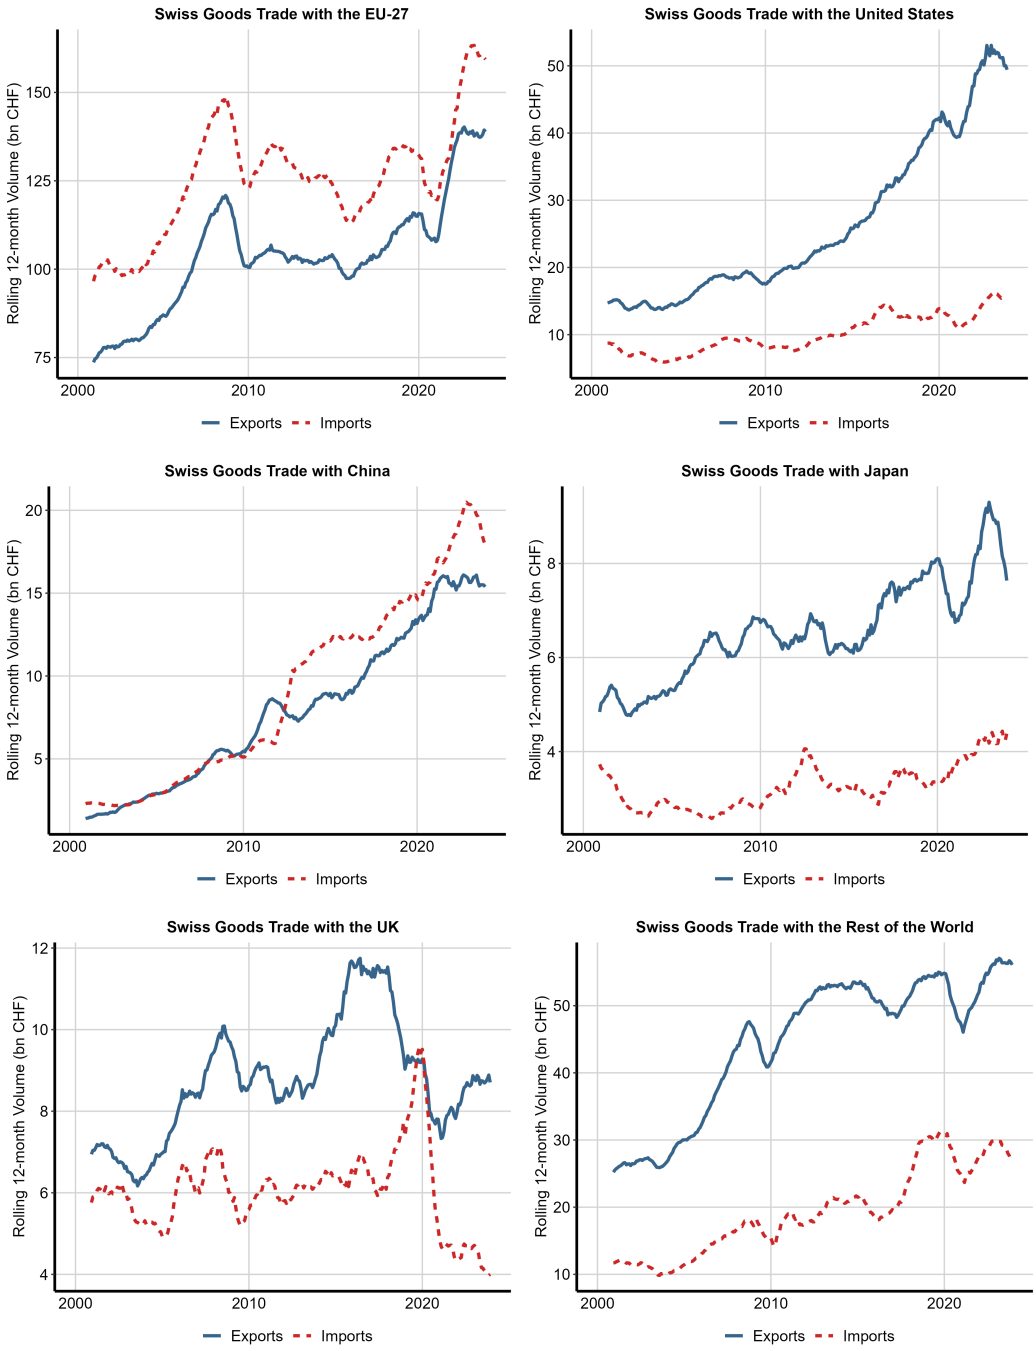

Note: The figures show annual shares of Switzerland's total goods exports (left) and imports (right), separated by largest product groups. Gold and precious metals are included. Figures in the bars denote shares of trade in percent.

2.3 Time Trends

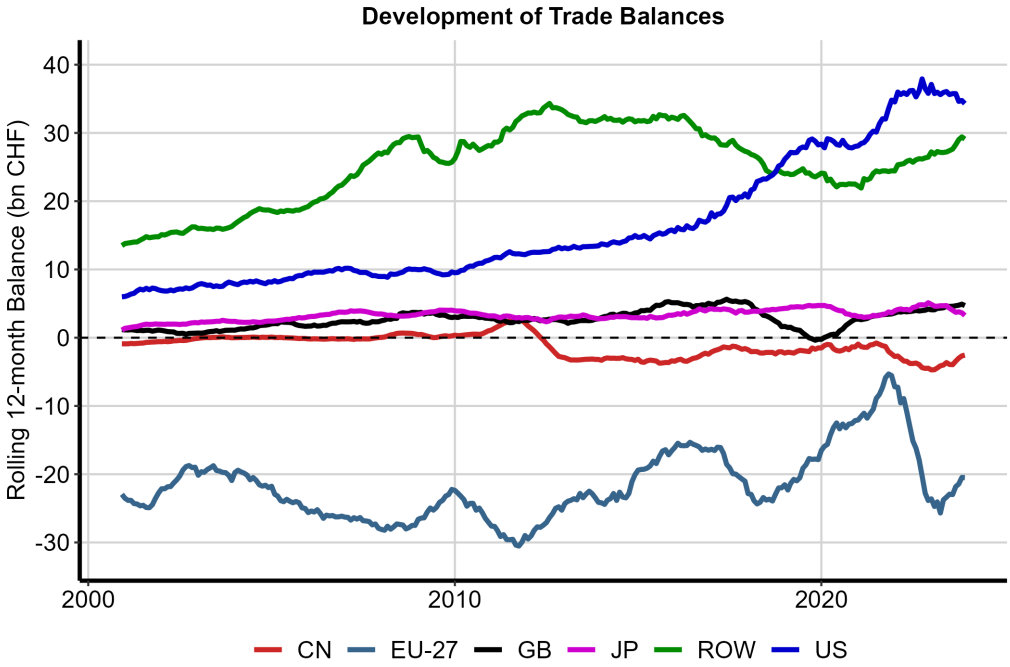

2.3.1 Exports to and Imports from Key Partners

There are striking differences across partners when considering Swiss ex- and imports since 2000. The trade deficits with both the EU and China have widened substantially. In contrast, Switzerland runs an increasingly large surplus with the UK and especially the US. While imports from India continue to rise strongly, exports cannot keep up.

Note: The figures show Switzerland's foreign goods trade since 2000 with five partners and the rest of the world (ROW) on a rolling 12-month basis.

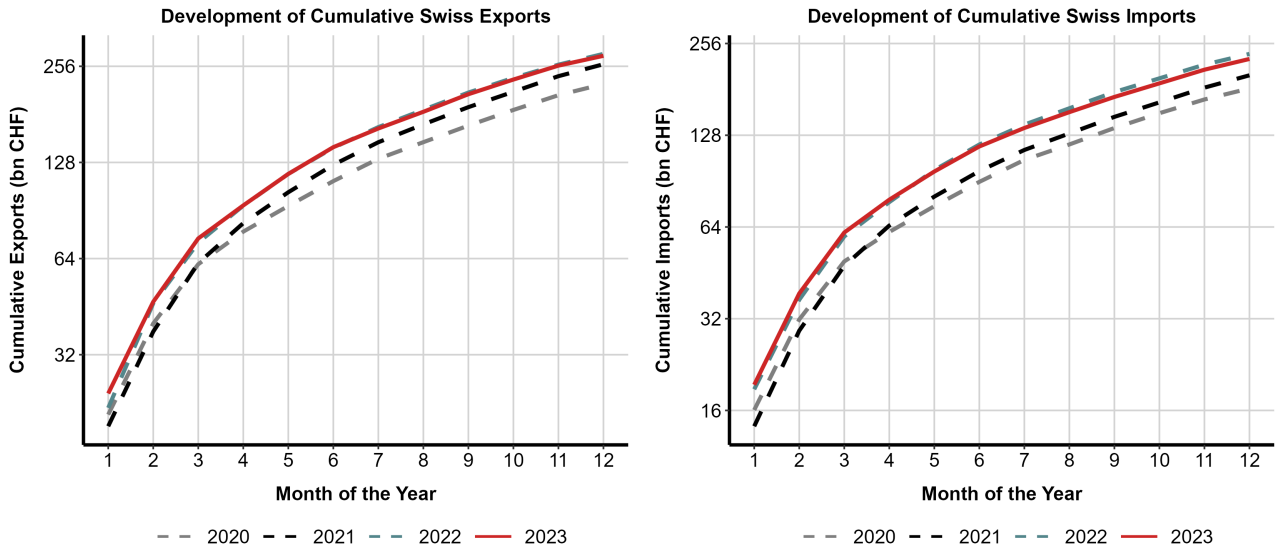

It is insightful to plot for each of the six countries (or country groups) the trade balance, that is the difference between exports and imports. Positive values indicate that Switzerland exports more than it imports. This is the case for the United States — currently at a near-record level. In contrast, Switzerland runs a large and growing trade deficit with both China and the EU-27.

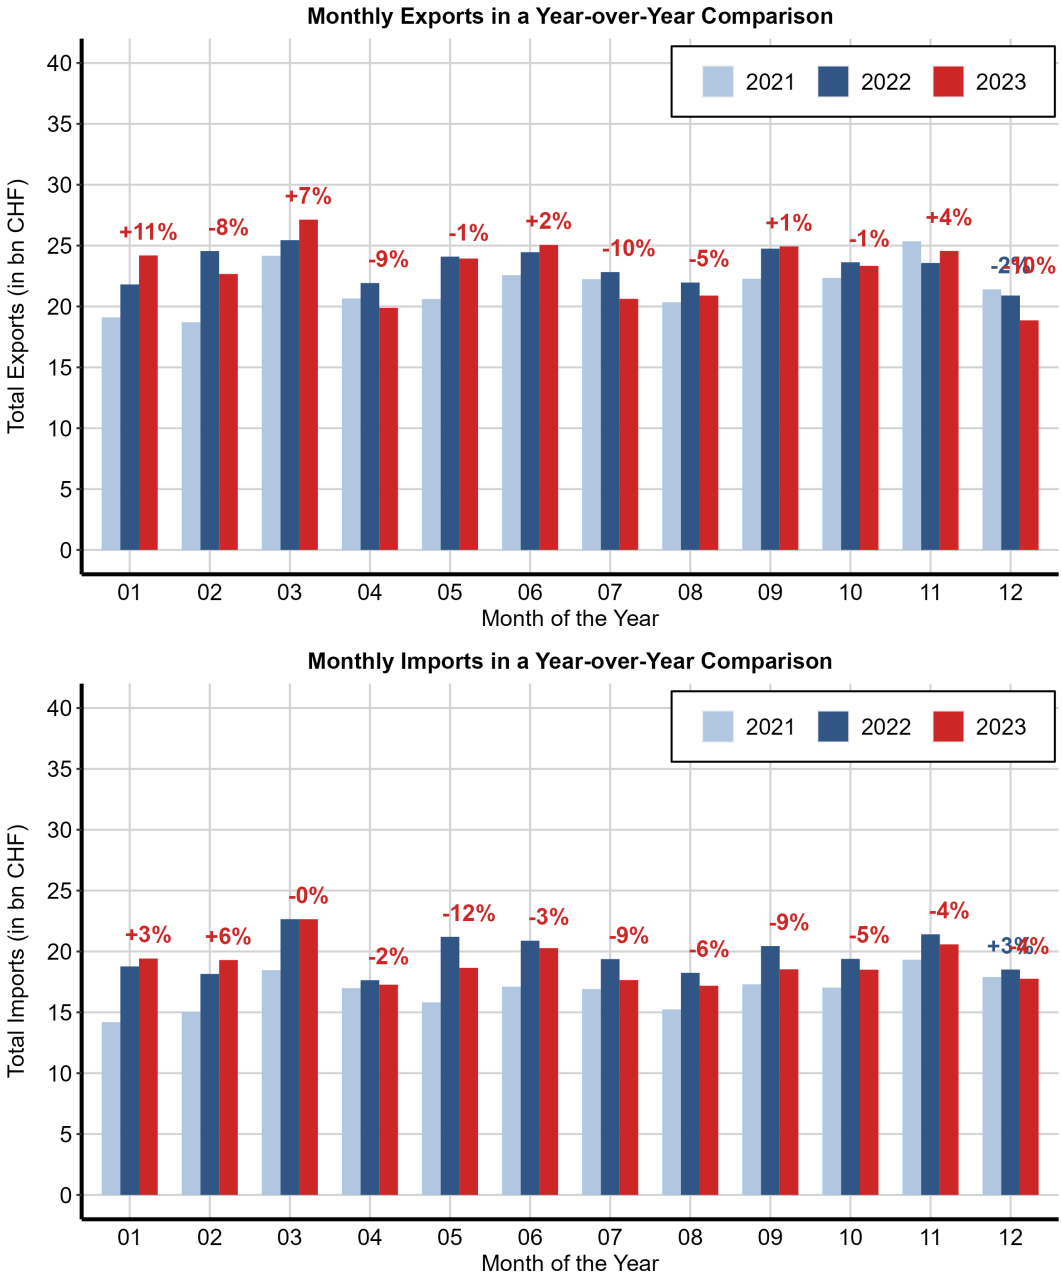

Note: The figure shows Switzerland's balance in foreign goods trade since 2000 with five partners and the rest of the world (ROW) on a rolling 12-month basis. Negative values imply that Swiss imports exceed Swiss exports.

2.3.2 Exports and Imports of 2023 in Comparison

The following charts provide an overview of how Switzerland's foreign goods trade evolved in the years 2020 – 2023. We separate exports and imports. A month-by-month comparison of 2023 with the previous two years indicates that both exports and imports have remained at similar levels to 2022.

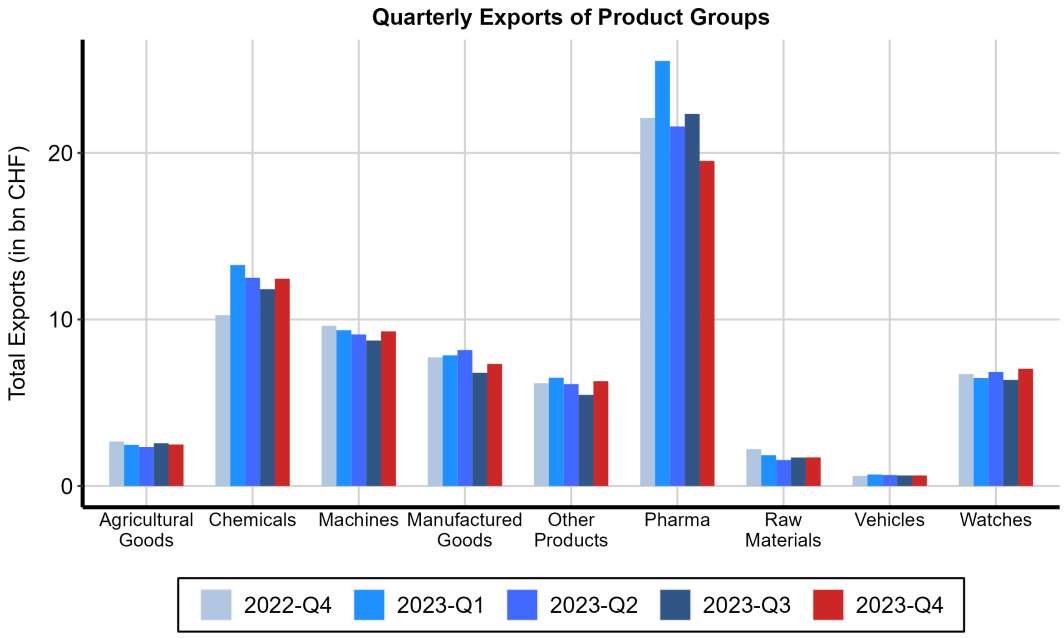

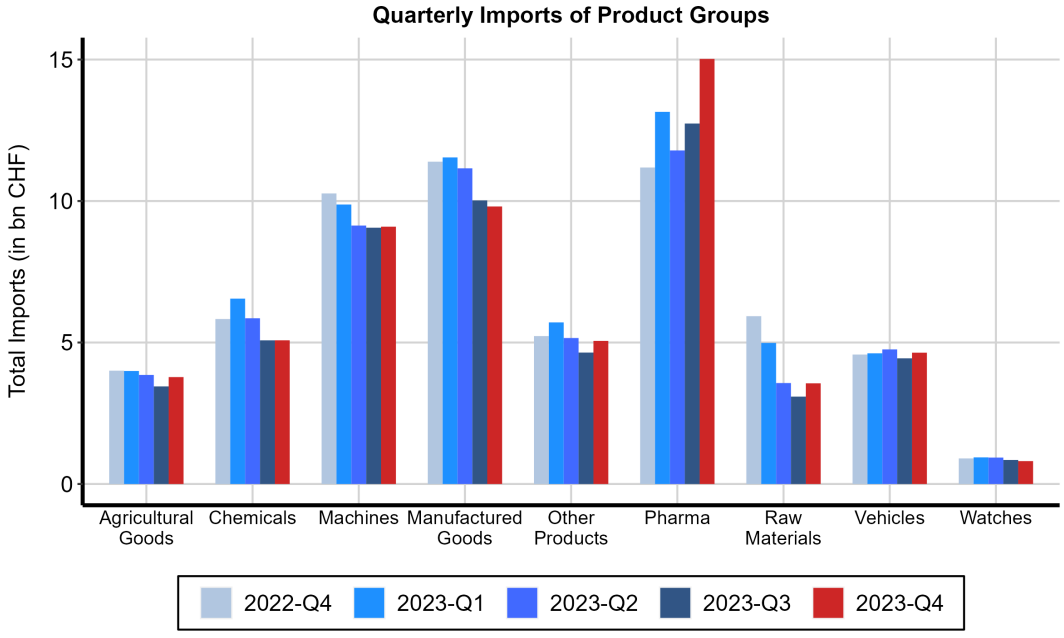

Note: The figures show the development of Switzerland's cumulative goods trade flows for four separate years. In this way trade flow patters during the year can be compared to previous years.

Note: The figures show Switzerland's foreign goods trade for three separate years (2021–2023), on the basis of monthly data. Percentage figures correspond to year-over-year growth rates.

A comparison of quarterly exports and imports by product group reveals that the latest quarter has not surpassed previously set records. On the export side, chemicals, machines and manufactured goods are in a downward trends. On the import side, decreases in the nominal value of imports are most likely caused by price effects.

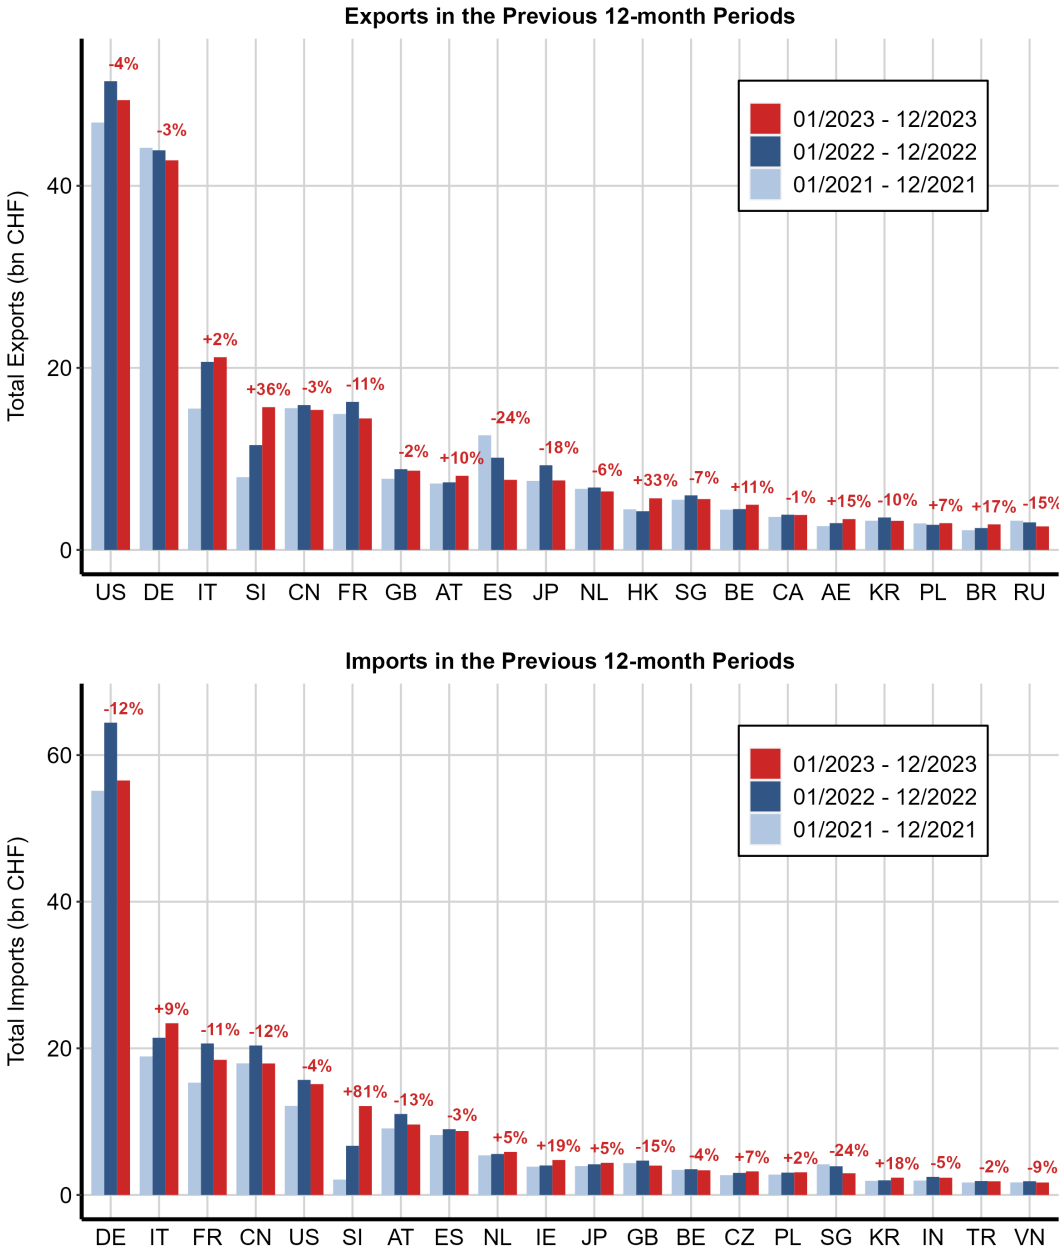

Note: The figures show Switzerland's foreign goods trade for five separate quarters (2022 Q1 to 2023 Q1), separate for exports (top figure) and imports (bottom figure). The product groups are explained in the appendix.

2.3.3 Trailing Twelve Months in Comparison

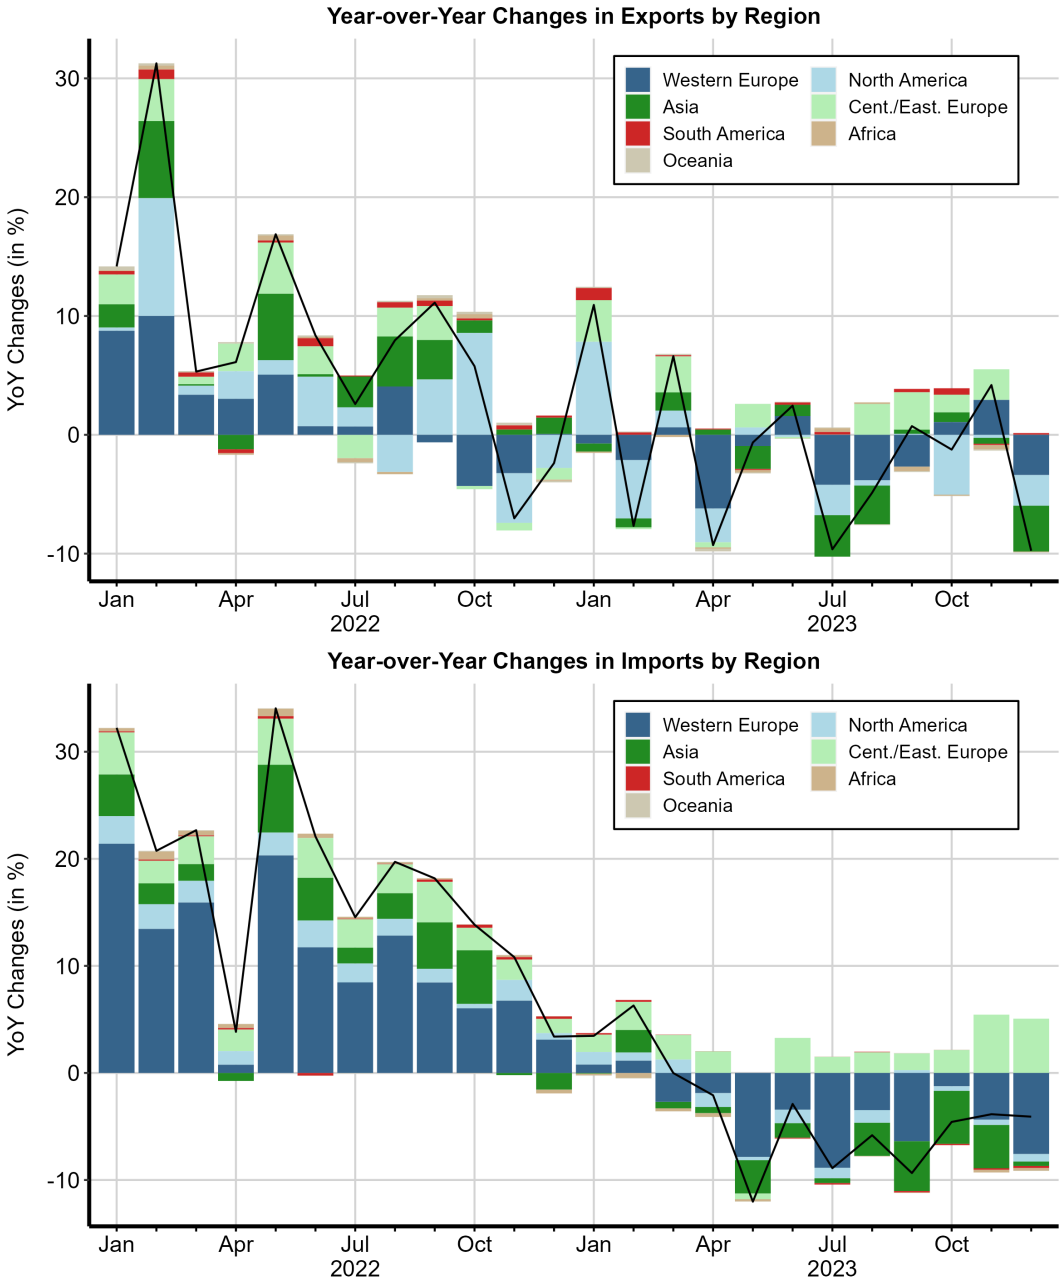

Looking at key trading partners in the last twelve months and comparing it to previous years, we see nations like Slovenia, Hong Kong and Belgium recorded increases in trade volumes. In contrast, trade with Germany, Austria, China or Spain has decreased.

Note: The figures show Switzerland's foreign goods trade of the three previous 12-month periods for the top 20 trade partners in a decreasing order. Percentages indicate the year-over-year growth rate.

2.3.4 Year-over-Year Changes by Region

The following pictures below depict year-over-year changes of Switzerland's foreign goods trade in percent, separated by region and aggregated. The value in a given month thus reads as the percentage change from the same month one year ago. Changes are caused by both price and quantity effects. Price effects are changes in the amount of trade resulting from price changes. Quantity effects relate to changes in the amount of trade resulting from a changes in the quantity of goods. For instance, in the case of large changes in imports from Western Europe during 2022, imports of HS-27 goods (Minear fuels and oils) from Germany are a clear driver, which in turn may have been affected by higher oil prices and larger import volumes.

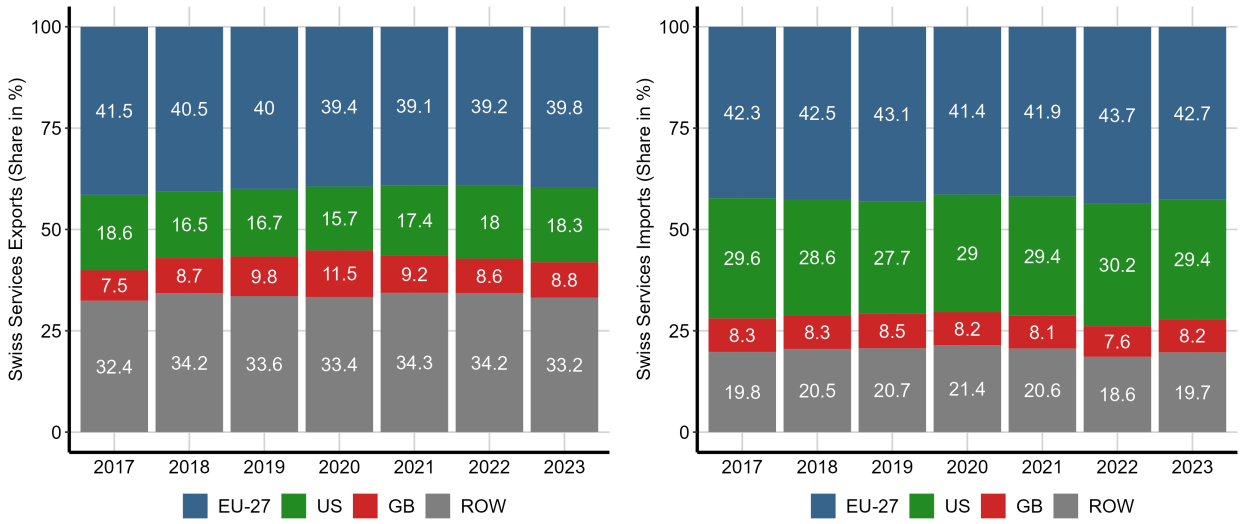

Note: The figures show year-over-year changes of Switzerland's monthly foreign goods trade in percent, separated by world regions. The black line represents the total year-over-year change of Switzerland's monthly foreign goods trade in percent.

3 Swiss Foreign Services Trade

3.1 Key Partner Countries

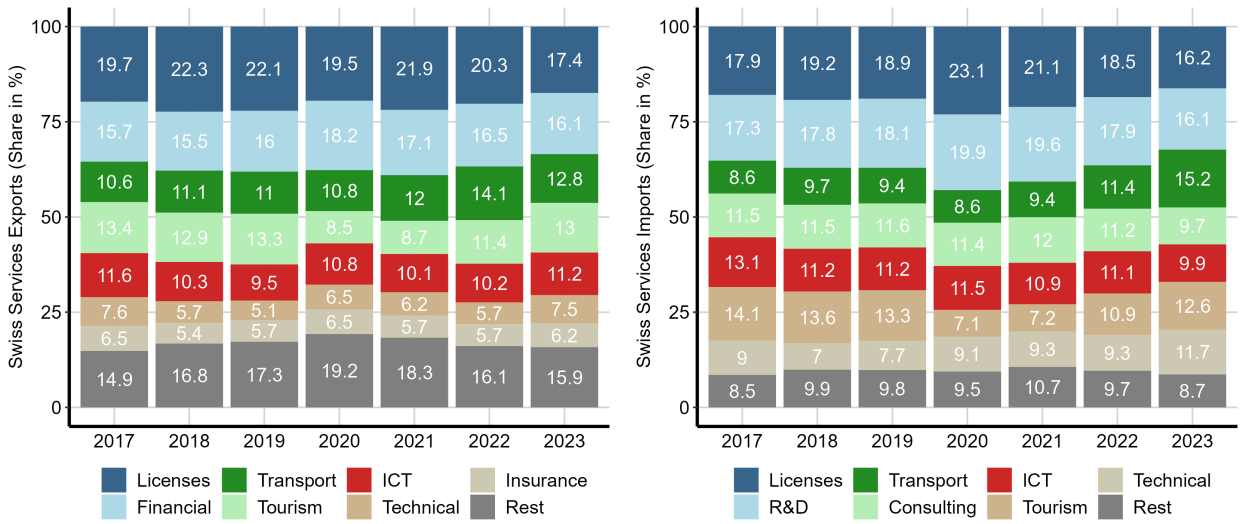

As in the goods trade, the EU-27 constitutes Switzerland's most important partner in the services sector. For both exports and imports about 40 percent is accounted for by the EU member countries. They are followed by the United States and the United Kingdom. Notably, the US accounts for almost a third of Swiss services imports. The export and import shares of the major partners have been relatively stable since 2017.

Note: The figures show annual shares of Switzerland's total services exports (left) and imports (right), separated by major partners (EU, USA, GB) as well as the rest of the world (ROW). Figures in the bars denote shares of trade in percent.

3.2 Main Services

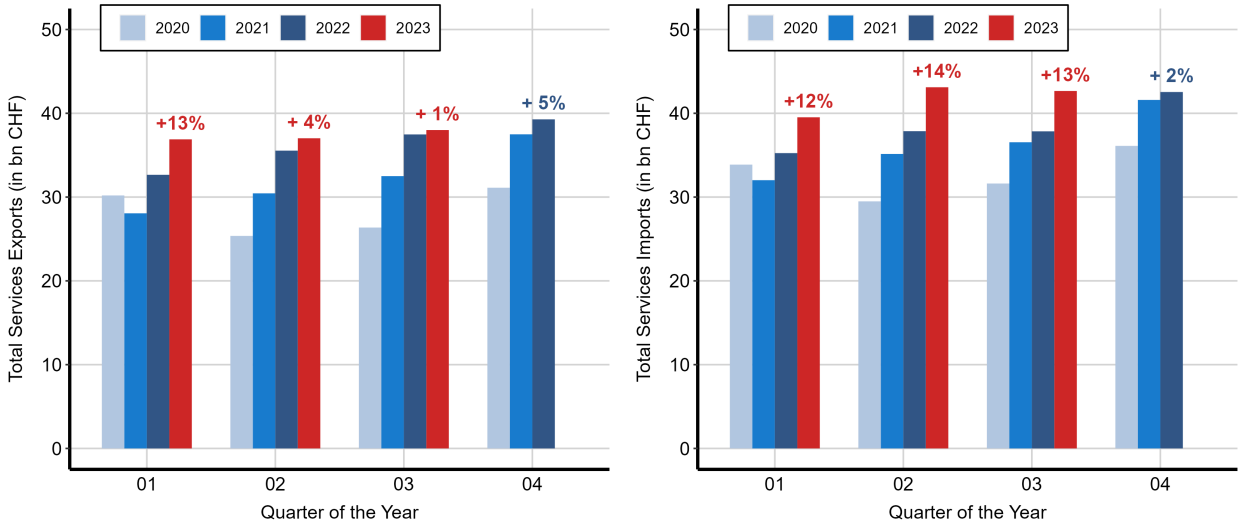

Swiss service exports and imports by service type are shown in the figure below. In general, shares for the seven major service types appear fairly evenly distributed. Consequently, the Swiss services trade is not marked by a few highly important components in the same way the goods trade is. License, transport and financial services make up roughly half of Swiss exports, while half of the imports are composed of the former two and R&D services. Throughout the seven years depicted, shares appear relatively stable apart from some minor changes, notably in 2020.

3.3 Time Trends

When comparing the latest quarter, Q2 of 2023, with the previous year, we observe a five to thirteen percent increase.

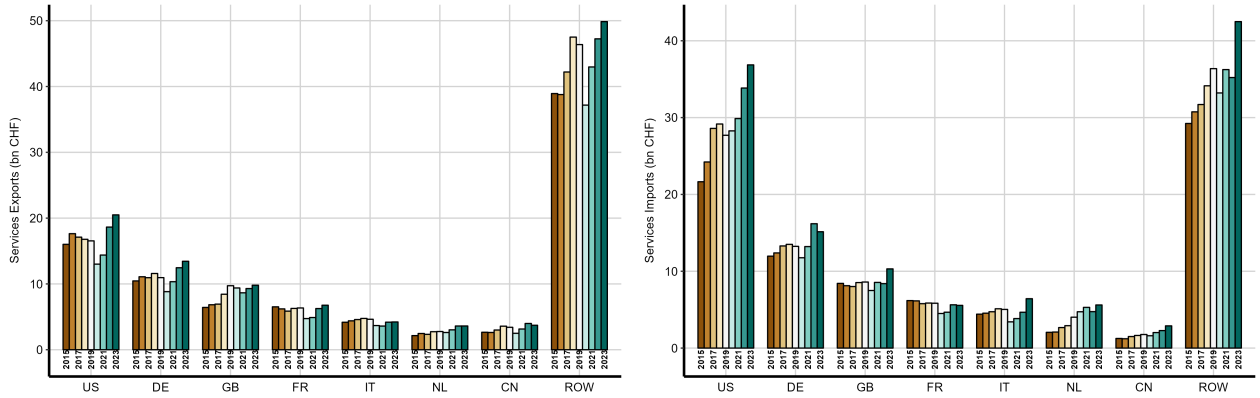

Note: The figures show Switzerland's foreign services trade for four separate years on the basis of quarterly data. Percentage figures correspond to year-over-year growth rates.

Considering the past decade, both exports and imports of services have increased as shown below. Trade levels have recovered from the Covid-related dip. However, services trade with the UK has developed noticeably worse with Swiss exports still below the 2020 level and imports being essentially flat since 2016.

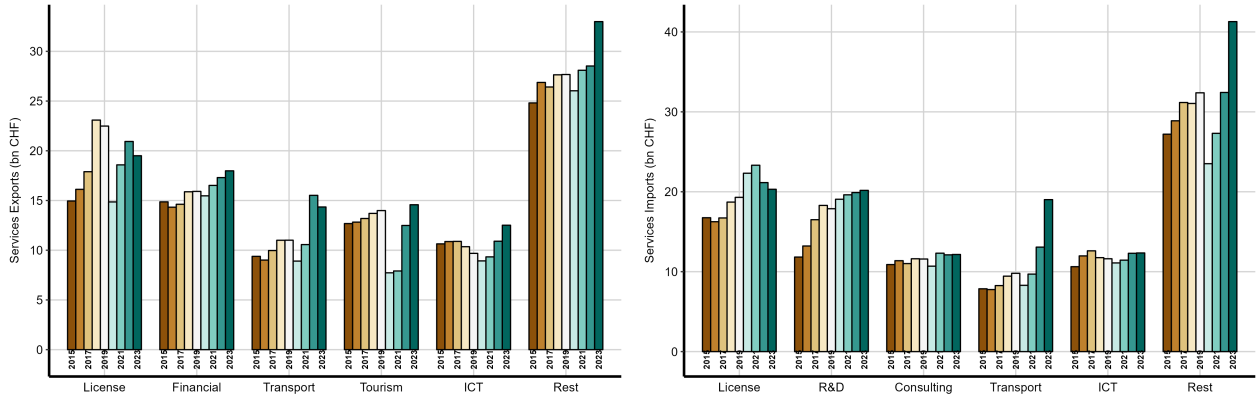

Note: The figures show Switzerland's monthly services exports (left) and imports (right) in total and for its three most important partners (EU, USA, UK) as well as the rest of the world (ROW).

Separating Swiss services exports and imports by trade partner reveals, for instance, that trade with the Netherlands has increased substantially in recent years.

Note: The figures show annual volumes of Switzerland's total services exports (left) and imports (right), separated by major trade partners.

Concerning the different services types, we observe that in particular licenses trade has increased strongly in the past decade — both on the export and import side.
